SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The State republican convention was called to order at noon to-day. Rev. S. V. Leach, ex chaplain of the state senate, prayed. The roll call in detail was omitted. On motion of General Curtis Morgan the glee club sang Harrison and Morton campaign songs, when they sang "Blaine is home again" amidst a storm of applause. Then, on motion of General Curtis, three rousing cheers were given for Harrison and Morton. General Tracy, of Brooklyn, was unanimously appointed temporary chairman. He read his address from manuscript. He denounced free trade; described the wonderful growth of the country under protection; quoted numerous statistics as a basis of his statement, and read official reports of the unfortunate condition of the country in low tariff times. At the conclusion of the speech the assembly rules were adopted as the rules of the convention. The committee on credentials and committee on resolutions were appointed at 2 p.m. The convention recessed till four o'clock.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 28.—President Cleveland has gone on a three days' fishing trip in the vicinity of Clifton Forge, on the Blue Ridge mountains. The President has been confined closely to official duties for many months. The Yellow Fever Epidemic.

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 28.—The following resolution has been passed by the board of health: Resolved—Inasmuch as the yellow fever has now become epidemic, with no chances of stamping out the disease, and it being useless to attempt to isolate cases of yellow fever, that flags and sanitary guards be discontinued." A Motor Car Breaks Loose.

The Loss of the Chester.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—The investigation by the British naval court into the cause of the collision last Wednesday between the Oceanic and City of Chester was resumed this morning in the office of the British consul. Geo. E. Bigger, the Oceanic's second officer, testified that notwithstanding the blowing first of one whistle signalling the Chester to "starboard her helm," and a repetition and blowing of two whistles, the steamer came right on till she struck. John Athias, quartermaster, who was steering the Oceanic at the time of the accident, testified that when the Oceanic signalled the Chester his orders were "hard-a-starboard," which he did immediately. It did not take five seconds to put the helm in this position and it remained so all the time.

The testimony of the second engineer of the Oceanic, in the afternoon, went to show that her engines had been going astern for nearly two minutes before the accident occurred, and that she did not steam ahead to keep her prow in the hold of the Chester. Had this been done the Chester would not have sunk so soon. Pilot Meyer testified that he heard no commands given on the Chester to lower the boats. The coroner will hold an inquest to-morrow.

Guilty in the Second Degree.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—The jury in the case of Louis Parosse, who stabbed and killed John Deuprey on November 26th last, returned a verdict finding him guilty in the second degree. The jury at first stood seven for conviction of murder in the first degree, but they compromised the verdict rather than disagree.

Goldenson's Death Watch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—At noon to-day the death watch was placed over Alex. Goldenson, the murderer of the school girl Mamie Kelly, who is to be hanged two weeks from Friday. Stock Miners Arrested.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A special from Milwaukee says H. S. Benjamin and F. A. Bates, members of the bankrupt mining stock firm of Moore, Benjamin & Co., were arrested last evening on a charge of conspiracy, and their bail fixed at $25,000 each. After spending a few hours in the custody of the sheriff neither was able to furnish bail, and upon the application of their attorneys the bail was reduced to $10,000 each, which they secured. The charge of conspiracy is made in connection with the civic action brought by Mrs. Helen Warner to recover $30,000 which she had invested with the bankrupt firm. Mrs. Warner claims she was guaranteed against loss. Also that there was a conspiracy, and that Benjamin, Bates, and their wives, and Moore, were in it. Moore is in Canada.

Accident at a Political Celebration.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 28.—A terrible fatality occurred at a Harrison-Morton banner raising in Dimock Hollow, three miles west of Morris, N. Y., to-day. Dickson, aged 25, of Morris, and Albert Sergeant, aged 29, of Dimock Hollow.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In the senate to-day the resolution offered by Hoar on Friday and the amendment by Edmunds, was adopted. The resolution calls upon the President for correspondence to be had with Great Britain remonstrating against the unfair treatment of our citizens by the Canadian government. The conference report on the Sunday civil service bill was made, and led to a bitter political debate, during which Hale made a bitter criticism upon the administration, and Breckenridge made a severe personal arraignment of Hale's methods. Without disposing of the report the senate adjourned.

Heading off the Northern Pacific.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 28.—It has been supposed that a surveying party in the employ of the mountain road were laying out an extension of the Sand Coulee branch to Neihart and other neighboring mines, but instead they have crossed Belt Creek, leaving the mines to the right and are going directly toward Judith, leaving an impression that rich mines are the objective point of the road instead of the Belt mines and coal ground of these mountains. It is thought now that the Manitoba will, if possible, head off the Northern Pacific from Billings to Benton, and thereby gain the carrying trade of that country. After gaining that trade it will then turn its attention to Baker, Neihart and other mining districts.

Retaliatory Measures.

Canada Able to Hold Her Own.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—In the lull of parliamentary recess, President Cleveland's retaliation message continues to absorb public attention, and is the main topic of the press. Feelings of surprise and regret are universal, and irritation is tempered by the sense that the President's action is merely a political move dictated by the exigencies of the election. As to the effect on Canada of the retaliation policy, sounder views prevail now than on the first receipt of the news. It is getting to be understood that Canada is far less at the mercy of the United States at the present day than she was some years ago, and is better able to hold her own than English journalists realized when first commenting on the news.

Prince Ferdinand in Trouble.

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—It is rumored that the Cobourg family, of which Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is a member, will, under German and Russian pressure, suspend Prince Ferdinand's appanage.

European Crop Report.

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—The official report of the world's harvest shows that the wheat crop in Italy, France, Great Britain and Russian Podolia is from 20 to 25 per cent below the average, and in Austria, Hungary, South-Eastern Europe and Egypt from 7 to 30 per cent above the average. The barley crop in Great Britain, Austria, Hungary, France and Egypt is deficient from 10 to 15 per cent. In Germany there is an average crop, and in Moldavia the crop is 25 per cent above the average.

The National League.

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—The regular fortnightly meeting of the National League was held here to-day. Timothy Harrington reported that the receipts of the league had decreased of late, but he hoped the donors would not allow the funds to languish. David Sheehy, M.P., addressed the meeting. He declared if arrests of league members were continued the people must do something to defy the government.

A Passion for Horse Racing.

Affairs in Morocco.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Reports recently received give a description of the terrible condition of affairs in Morocco, owing to the desire on the part of the Sultan to punish the rebels for the murder of Prince Muley. The reports are derived from Spanish sources, and are now believed to be colored somewhat. This coloring is believed to emanate from official quarters, and it is said that the condition, which is bad enough, is made to look worse so that Spain may find a pretext to interfere in the administration of the Moroccon government, and thus be able to help herself to whatever she finds best adapted to her wants. While the European powers care very little for Morocco, it is not at all likely that Spain will be allowed to control any more of the Mediterranean coast line than she now possesses.

The River Nile Falling.

CAIRO, Aug. 28.—The Nile continues to fall rapidly.

The Money will be Forthcoming.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Grand Trunk people here say they will have money enough to buy Congress, if necessary, to defeat any legislation hostile to their interests in connection with the transit trade of the United States.

Lord Salisbury in France.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Lord Salisbury is at Royato. He has exchanged frequent visits with Baron Mohrenheim, Russian embassador to France.

Von Moltke's Retirement.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—The correspondence between Emperor William and General Von Moltke, in reference to the latter's retiring from the head of the army, is published. In replying to the General's request to be allowed to resign because of his inability to mount a horse, the Emperor wrote that it was extremely harmful both to himself and the army to lose a marshal who had led the German forces to the most marvellous victories that ever crowned the struggles of the army. He begged General Von Moltke, out of love for his sovereign, his country and the army would accept the presidency of the defence commission, so that he might know him as being still concerned in the weal and woe of Fatherland. The General in his reply expressed the deepest gratitude for the Emperor's letter, and said that it would be preserved by his family as an invaluable momento. "Those gracious words," wrote the General, "are the highest rewards for anything I have been able to do." The General stated he would be happy to accept the honorable position which the Emperor offered him.

THE PREMIER'S HEALTH.

From New Brunswick intelligence comes to us that at Inch Arran Sir John looked "as bright as a silver dollar." It is really wonderful how the veteran premier, amid the countless cares of office, preserves his vitality, and when out on a holiday enjoys every moment of it, and extends the elasticity of his spirits, by some peculiar magnetism, to others. While the two ex-Liberal leaders are really invalids, to whom the affairs of state have for the time being no active significance, Sir John guides the destinies of the Dominion on to the goal of a magnificent existence. Perhaps the secret is that while Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake took upon their own shoulders all the duties of office, Sir John Macdonald has always relegated a portion of these to each of his many tried and trusted lieutenants, who are at one with him in their desire to give the country an honest and enterprising government. His is the ruling hand; his the master mind; his the genius which has carried his party on to victory after victory, but he has seen the necessity of conserving to the utmost his energies in order that he might not fall by the wayside. He taught the lesson which Mr. Mackenzie and, more especially, Mr. Blake should have learned, that political life with all its worries and perplexities, its heartburnings and bitternesses would tax the physique of a giant, unless it was tempered by fun and frolic, by summer jaunts along the sea shore, far from the madding crowd of hungry office-seekers and partizan back-biters. As we see the old man eloquent, in imagination, looking "as bright as a dollar" wandering along the lovely banks of the Bay Chaleur, or in the classic land where Longfellow's Evangeline once lived and loved, at least in the poet's fancy, we are glad that the greatest of Canadian statesmen is walking peacefully down the years stronger and firmer than ever, if that were possible, in the love and esteem of the great majority of the people of this broad Dominion.

THE LARGEST ARTESIAN WELL.

In connection with similar work in our own interior, the Melbourne Times' description of the opening of an artesian well at Barcaldine, in the interior of Queensland, is very timely:—The locality is far removed from any watercourse, and has frequently suffered severely from drouth. The boring operations were commenced some time ago by Mr. J. Longhead, managing director of the Federal Boring Association, and no sign of water was met till December 16 last, when the drill suddenly dropped seven feet. Within a few minutes the water ascended the bore, rose several feet into the air, and then fell away into the form of a large glass dome. Its temperature then was 120° Fahrenheit, but soon afterwards receded to 102° Fahrenheit, and Mr. Longhead anticipates that it will go down to about 90° Fahrenheit. Before the rods were removed the bore was continued to a total depth of 691 feet 9 inches, so as to form a receptacle for any sediment, and prevent its interference with the course of supply. The rods were then lifted, and some additional casing was put in to preserve the sides of the bore where any weakness had been revealed. A pipe seventeen feet long was inserted into the bore, and carried up to the top of the derrick, which had been used in connection with the boring plant, and over the top of this the stream of water, twelve inches in diameter, had seemingly been allowed to run to waste. The pressure indicated that had the piping been carried a much greater distance into the air the stream would not have reached its natural level. It is supposed that the water is issuing at the rate of 400 gallons per minute, or 576,000 gallons per day.

CHINESE VS. INDIAN TEA.

The decline in the export of teas from China has been so steady and of such proportions as to have attracted the attention of the Chinese government. Official inquiry shows that competition of teas from India and Ceylon have been responsible for much of the decreased export. India and Ceylon teas are said to be better grown and prepared than China teas, and are also considerably stronger. More care is taken with them than is taken with the Chinese article. In addition to the better quality claimed there is also the question of expense. Indian teas are cheaper than those of China, owing to the heavier taxes and charges on the latter. The burdensome export duty on Chinese tea is cited as an example of the heavy taxes levied. The Pall Mall Gazette notes that the English takings of Chinese tea are falling off, and says: "It is remarkable that while the business with England is decreasing so much there is a large and rapidly developing Russian trade, which seems not only able to stand the Chinese duty, but the Russian import duty of 1s. 8d. per pound added. While the direct steamers from Hankow for London carried 22,732,221 pounds during the season, 1887-88, against 40,528,806 pounds the season before, the direct steamers to Odessa carried 11,146,486 pounds, against 9,435,360 pounds.

CHINA'S TRADE IN 1887.

British Columbia's rapidly growing intimate relations with China renders anything concerning the condition of its trade interesting. The total imports into China in 1887 were valued at £25,566,000, as against £21,869,000 in 1886, an increase of over 17 per cent. The larger part of this increase is of cotton yarn and piece goods, mostly from England. Copper and opium imports also showed important increases. A heavy decrease was shown in the imports of refined petroleum. The total imports of this product were only 12,015,000 gallons in 1887, against 23,038,000 gallons in 1886. The total exports in 1887 were valued at £21,465,000, an increase of over 11 per cent. on the preceding year. Tea, the only important export showing a decrease, fell off 5 per cent. in the quantity and 12 per cent. in the value exported. The exports of silk showed an important increase.

McDOUGALL AND BOLAG.

Hon. William McDougall is a strong, though recent, advocate of the adoption in Canada of the Gothenburg system of liquor selling. A quarter of a century ago, when drinking was a national vice in Sweden, some of Gothenburg's citizens undertook the work of reform in that town. They organized a company which gradually acquired the licensed premises where liquor was sold, and the right to do business in them. In due time the corporation had a monopoly of the licensed liquor business. The essential feature of the system they adopted is that no money is made in the trade. The Bolag, or liquor company, is not a commercial corporation, but a society for the improvement of morals, and is pledged to hand over to the town government the whole profits from the sale of liquor. Managers are placed in every house who are paid by salary from the proceeds of the sale of provisions, in the same public houses. There is, therefore, no inducement to sell to a drunken man, or to sell after hours in violation of any law. The Gothenburg method has been adopted in all the large cities and towns in Sweden, and has spread into Norway. English public men have reported favorably of its results, and Mr. McDougall, who has been in Scandinavia, recommends its adoption in Canada. He says:

To my mind no proposition has been submitted to the people of Canada or the United States which promises such beneficial results as the Gothenburg or Bolag system. If we can obtain in any of our cities a number of patriotic and earnest men who are willing to take over the entire liquor trade of a town, city or county, and manage it without hope of profit, turning all the receipts over to the state or city treasury after paying the salaries of salesmen, etc., the experiment ought to be worth trying. It is the dealers' greed for gain that prevents the observance of regulations restraining the sale of liquor after hours on particular days or to minors or habitual drunkards. Once deprive the vendors of all interest in the profits of the traffic, and the law would be strictly observed. In this age of "combines" it may be hard to induce men to take control of the liquor traffic of a town or city without hope of a pecuniary profit, but some of our temperance men—and there are many of them sincere and enthusiastic—ought to be induced to go into such an undertaking. Surely we have as great patriots and as keen temperance men in Canada as in Sweden. Under the most stringent prohibitory law facilities are afforded for obtaining spirits under certain circumstances, so that the absolute banishment of intoxicants is never contemplated. To my mind then, the attention of parliament and the people should be directed towards ascertaining the best means to prevent excess in the use of ardent spirits. In a few years the system adopted in Sweden has converted a drunken nation into a comparatively sober one. I spent a week in Gothenburg in 1873, and saw only two drunken men. One of these was a sailor, probably a foreigner, and the other was a commercial traveller. I visited Stockholm and the other chief towns of Sweden, and took some pains to inquire into the habits of the common people. The evidence of general improvement under the Gothenburg system seemed to me conclusive. The drink traffic was no longer being pushed by men from motives of pecuniary gain.

If Mr. McDougall should attempt to organize one of his Bolags in Victoria he would begin to see that our cities are not Gothenburgs. He would find one class of the people in favor of this or that system of license, and another section opposed to the sale of liquor by any system. The latter class would object to the scheme on principle, and the former would regard it as inexpedient if not unnecessary. "Wandering Willie," we fear, has not yet discovered the long-sought panacea. Still it is well to see our public men giving the question thought.

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT AND POSTAL ARRANGEMENTS.

To The Editor:—The withdrawal of the subsidy to the San Francisco mail steamers without any intimation on the part of the Dominion Government, took place many months since, and was vigorously resented by the British Columbia Board of Trade, not only for the reason that the withdrawal of the subsidy was a deliberate breach of the terms of union, but that it placed our mail facilities in a much worse plight than ever. Every merchant is aware of the inconveniences and loss experienced by the San Francisco steamers not being authorized to carry mail matter, and it is a fact that invoices forwarded by the regular mail via Oregon and California railroad and Puget Sound, frequently arrive several days in arrear of the steamers bringing the goods. The same sort of thing, of course, exists with regard to shipments from Victoria to San Francisco, and produces similar loss, irritation and inconvenience. I understand the Board of Trade received repeated and positive assurances from the Government that the subsidy would be renewed and that the annoyances complained of so frequently would cease. It seems, however, that the excuse put forward is, that the Postmaster-General is waiting for approval of the authorities at Washington before a change in delivery of the mails to the steamers can be effected. If this is really so, the unpardonable delays which have been patiently submitted to so long, make one begin to doubt sincerity in the matter, and I submit that it is the duty of the provincial authorities to again point out most strongly the gross breach of faith which has been perpetrated by the Dominion government. I fear, too, that postal matters generally in this city are receiving the shabbiest kind of treatment, i. e. if the reports relative to the "Irish promotion" of the clerks in the Victoria office are really true; and it seems inconceivable that a reduction of salaries, ranging from 25 to 40 per cent., without previous intimation, can be inflicted upon a lot of young men (badly paid before the reduction of salaries) who are expected to be competent in their duties, respectable and honest.

After all, I understand that the total cost of salaries of the letter carriers, recently introduced, does not actually amount to the reduction effected in the salaries of the unfortunate clerks, so that the apparent liberality of the Dominion government in granting us a "free delivery" amounts to "thank you, for nothing."

Why Victoria is subjected to such treatment might well be asked, and it is a question that will have to be answered by those whose duty it is to watch and conserve her interests. R.

HER LETTER.

"So here I am writing at home, dear,
And you so far away.
And when you read the letter
I wonder what you will say
The green leaves whisper around me,
The nightingales sing above,
Just as they did that day, dear,
When you told me all your love!"

"I can see her," he fondly whispered,
As he sat by the far camp fire,
And read and read her letter
With heart that could never tire.
"I can see her true eyes shining
As she leans on her little hand,
And gazes and dreams about me
Here in this distant land!"

* * * * * * *

The bugle rang out at midnight,
The fight was lost ere morn,
He fell, with his old battalion,
Leading a hope forlorn.
While at home the sun is shining,
And the roses of June unfold,
But the maiden is quietly weeping
As she dreams her dream of old.
—Cassell's Magazine.

Conkling and the Reporters.

Roscoe Conkling had an exceedingly genial way in dealing with reporters who were known to him. He was always happy and pleasant in his manners, frankly told them what they wanted to know, but invariably wound up the interview by resting his white hand on the reporter's shoulder and saying "You will please to remember, my friend, that I have not said anything for publication." Then he would explain how publicity might hamper him in his legal cases. His confidence was always respected. Since he established himself in New York he was frequently called out of bed long after midnight in response to a reporter's call. Even at that hour he was genial, witty and obliging, as far as he could be. A short time ago a reporter told him that he would like above all things to print some of the interesting confidential chats he had had with him. The reporter dilated on the avidity with which newspaper readers would read such matter. The senator only smiled and said: "Wait till after my death, my friend; wait till I am dead."—Chicago Herald.

Cause of Color Blindness.

An article in The Medical Press advances the idea that the particular defect which gives rise to color blindness lies not in the eye itself, but in the brain. Certain persons cannot distinguish between two musical tones; yet, as they hear both, the defect is not deafness, or any fault of hearing. Professor Ramsay, the advocate of the idea, therefore argues that in people who have no musical "ear," the brain is at fault, and assumes that it may be equally true that the inability to perceive certain colors is not due to any defect of sight, but to the mental lack of power in interpreting the impressions conveyed to the brain by the optic nerve. If this be true, the question of color blindness ceases to be a physical problem, and may be classed among cases for the mental physiologist to deal with.—Demorest's Monthly.

The Empress of Germany.

The position of Empress Victoria in Germany seems to be that which a Yankee woman would occupy in English society. It is seldom, if ever, that happiness comes from a wedding of western radicalism with eastern conservatism. The English princess was brought up to be a precise housekeeper, aggressive and severely determined. She is not only the inheritor of English custom and taste, but of the peculiarly absolute notions of Victoria. She comes in conflict with the phlegm that surrounds her, and in doing so shows very little consideration for what she disapproves, and is not altogether chary of occasional contempt. A Dutch princess for England will do, but an English princess for Germany is too bounteously supplied with progressive views.—Globe Democrat.

The Shoe Shining Business.

One has to have more than a box, a brush, and a box of blacking to start in the shoe shining business nowadays. The correct thing at all the permanent places is to have a cut glass water bottle, an oil can, and a sheet of canton flannel. The water takes the place of an objectionable moistening process, the oil is very artistically squirted along where the uppers meet the soles, and the sheet of flannel is grasped at either end and sawed to and fro over the shoe after it has been polished. According to the macaroni shoeblacks "dat mak-a de shoe shine-a-like-a de lookglass."—New York Sun.

Superstition of Mexican Indians.

To determine, in event of the child ailing, if a spell has been cast upon it, the mother places beath its swinging cradle a new casuhela (an earthen pipkin), full of water and breaks a fresh egg into it. If an eye appear in the curdled egg—and it generally does appear, for they find a semblance of an eye in the embryo—the child has been enchanted and must be treated accordingly.—Vera Cruz Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

A Pill for the Liver.

"In nine cases out of ten," says a Detroit doctor, "where people come to me and want something for the liver, I give them a bread pill and they are promptly cured. The liver is about the last organ to rebel, but is the first to be suspected if one doesn't feel well."—New York Graphic.

A DUCK STORY.

A "Settler" in the Way of Astonishing and Veracious Yarns.

Several old sports were seated around the table at the Board of Trade and as usual were deeply interested in narrating their achievements in the duck-hunting line, and some very tall yarns were spun, but as nobody questioned the volunteered experience of anybody else in the crowd, everything went along peaceably until Colonel Minor took a hand with the following statement, which for the time being completly paralyzed the boys.

"You fellows think you're mighty smart when you try to stuff us that you've killed forty and fifty ducks at a shot. You're no good. I saw a shot once that killed a million!"

"Oh, let up," chorused the gang.

"Won't do it. If you don't leave me alone I'll make it two million, and then I'll be on the inside."

"Let's have it, then, if it isn't too much sudden death."

"Well, I don't care whether you believe me or not," said the old gentleman, "but it's the truth I'm telling you.

"In 1845 I was captain of the steamboat Gazelle, running in the gulf trade from Houston to Galveston, coasting as it were. At the northern end of the bay was a river barely navigable at the best of times.

"The surrounding country was unsettled, and the region was a perfect godsend for sportsmen. Winged game were innumerable, and seemingly made it their headquarters, more especially during stormy weather, as the locality was well sheltered and landlocked.

"A storm arose after we left Galveston on this particular trip, and as steamboats were not built either as large or as substantial as they are at the present time, we broke for shelter and anchored at the mouth of the river. [The spot is now known as San Jacinto Bay.]

"It was barely twilight, but the whole river as far as we could see was a solid mass of ducks, geese and trout.

"Suddenly a flash of lightning or a thunderbolt sprang out of the sky; there was a deafening and blinding shock, such as I had never before or have ever since experienced, and all those ducks turned up their toes."

"Kill 'em all?" asked one of the crowd.

"Blessed if I know," said the Colonel, "but the whole of Galveston Bay was covered with ducks for a fortnight. The people lived on salted duck for about a year, and I gathered in about 160 bales of feathers."

"See here, now, we can't stand everything."

"Wishimaydie if it ain't so. I've got some of the feathers at home yet, and will bring you down a sample the next time I think of it."—[Cincinnati Sun.

Owls as Ornaments.

"I never saw anything like it in my life," said a Chestnut street jeweller the other day. "The women are just rank crazy over owls and owls' heads. They want them on everything they buy."

A lady came in here only yesterday and got a pretty little Swiss watch, with a perfectly plain, polished case. She wanted to know whether she could not have an owl's face engraved in the center of the case, or a circle of little owls around the edge.

"Anything, so it's owls," she said.

"Of course, we had to do as she asked, but she'll grumble when she has to pay the bill. For the life of me I can't see what they find pretty in the staring old yellow-eyed bird."

A glance around the jewelry store showed plain evidence of the rage.

All the new styles of bronze clocks were ornamented with figures of the solemn bird of night. He stared from vases and painted umbrella stands, and from every conceivable ornament.

In silver he was worked up in a hundred different forms. His head formed the head of pepper-boxes, umbrellas and canes, and he was used to ornament lace-pins, breastpins and hairpins.

A thing that attracted a great many ladies was a small natural owl's head, covered with brown feathers, with the big yellow eyes wide open. It was set on a silver back, to be used as a breastpin, and was valued at $10.

Women who would be frightened half to death at the hoot of an owl on a dark night are now proud to wear stuffed owls' heads in their fall bonnets. The cheerless bird is also extensively used for decorating fancy note paper.—[Philadelphia Press.

Too Much Candy.

It has often been a query how much candy a boy could eat before he was satisfied. It is generally supposed by most boys that they can dispose of several pounds and then go hungry.

A proposition was readily accepted by a fourteen-year-old lad on Fourth street, Sunday afternoon, that, if he would eat fifty cents' worth, it would cost him nothing, but, if he failed, he would have to pay the half dollar.

As he started in, bravely eyeing the delicious chocolate creams, he remarked that he regretted not having made the stipulation a dollar.

Quite a crowd gathered round to witness the spectacle. The boy kept changing from one kind to another and finally wished to take a run around the block, as he was getting cold, but was held to his bargain.

After having sampled all the candies in the shop, and disposed of about fifteen cents' worth, he showed signs of having enough. He took the half-dollar out of his pocket, put it back, and then began eating again with renewed vigor for a few moments.

After having disposed of twenty cents' worth, he suddenly threw the money on the counter and said he had all he wanted, and before he would eat any more he would fight.

He seemed anxious to get away from the crowd, which was convulsed with laughter, and went whistling down the street, a sadder and a wiser boy.—[Woodland (Col.) Democrat.

Massage an Old Remedy.

Massage, the art of curing diseases by rubbing, kneading and stroking, is said to have been known to the Chinese 300 years before the Christian era, while the ancient Persians, Greeks and Romans pursued similar methods.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approaches are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption, and to the head causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

A FRIGHTFUL SKIN DISEASE.

Sufferings Intense. Head nearly raw. Body covered with Sores. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

Messrs. STEVENS & BRUNER, Monroe, N. C.

Dear Sirs,—About two months ago, on your recommendation, I bought a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box CUTICURA SALVE, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, for my son, aged thirteen years, who has been afflicted with eczema for a long time, and I am pleased to say that I believe the remedies have cured him. His sufferings were intense, his head being nearly raw, his ears being gone except the gristle, and his body was covered with sores. His condition was frightful to behold. The sores have now all disappeared, his skin is healthy, eyes bright, cheerful in disposition, and is working every day. My neighbors are witnesses to this remarkable cure, and the doubting ones are requested to call or write me, or any of my neighbors.

We have written and herewith inclose what his father has to say about the matter,—wrote it just as he dictated.

We are selling quite a quantity of CUTICURA REMEDIES and hear nothing but praises for them. We regard the CUTICURA REMEDIES the best in the market, and shall do all we can to promote their sale. Yours truly,

Mr. Harper Assigns.

Mr. Thaddeus Harper, one of the largest cattle raisers and dealers, assigned for the benefit of his creditors. His failure is a surprise to all, but it is attributed to the heavy losses incurred during the severe winter of 1886-1887, and also to the failure up to the present to secure returns from the Horsefly placer mines.

A Lunatic's Cunning.

Information Wanted.

The Postmaster has received a letter from Hugh D. McCamis, Arden Station, Manitoba, asking for information of Miss Maggie McCamis, who came to British Columbia about a year ago. Her mother is at the point of death, and any intelligence of her will be gladly received at this office.

Port Angeles as a Port of Entry.

Mr. Norman R. Smith, of Port Angeles, who arrived over yesterday in a canoe, will to-day circulate a petition for signature by the American citizens and others, of this city, favoring the establishment of Port Angeles as a port of entry. Its growing trade, the fact that it is easily entered by vessels in all sorts of weather, and its proximity to Victoria, should be sufficient to induce the Secretary of the Treasury to grant the oft-expressed petition of the citizens of Port Angeles.

Speedy Trials Act.

Yesterday L. M. Cantrell was brought up under the Speedy Trials Act before the Chief Justice on a charge of seducing a young girl of sixteen years of age from Seattle. In delivering sentence upon the prisoner the Chief Justice spoke strongly on the subject of seduction of young girls. The law has declared that in this country the offence in question is criminal, one that must be put down with a strong hand. The prisoner was sent to gaol for twelve months with hard labor.

Broder & Co., of Morrisburg, have purchased a large tract of timber land close to the Alberni canal, and propose to at once commence the erection of a small sawmill preparatory to the construction of a larger one having a capacity of 100,000 feet per day. The firm of Broder & Co. is well known in Russell, Ontario, Mr. Broder at one time representing that constituency in the Ontario legislature. The representative of the firm, who was in this city, left for the east this morning to purchase the necessary machinery for the Alberni mills.

The mill will have a capacity of 20,000 feet of lumber per day, and will cut for the local trade only. The machinery will be built by Messrs. Hamilton & Son, of Peterborough, Ont., and will cost in the neighborhood of $14,000. It is Mr. Grady's intention to have the mill running before the end of the year.

The Game Season.

The close season for game expires on Friday, the 31st inst., after which date it will be lawful to hunt and kill deer, elk, reindeer, cariboo, mountain goat, mountain sheep or hare, and grouse, partridge, prairie fowl, quail, cock pheasants, robins, larks, wild ducks and other game birds. The only restriction is against hen pheasants, which, according to the provisions of the Game Law, "shall not be hunted, taken, killed or shot at, wounded or injured at all, or at any time." Old sportsmen who have been "spying out the ground," say deer, grouse and pheasants are very plentiful this season, and several parties of hunters have been organized to start out on Friday night, all of whom are confident of returning to town with full bags.

Gone Home.

The young man Bonny, who was tried under the Speedy Trials Act for bringing stolen goods into Canada, convicted and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, left for Westminster, this morning, where he will tarry until his term of imprisonment expires. Bonny was not alone when he left the city, but had for a companion Deputy Sheriff Langley. Poor Bonny! his fall was great, but he did not seem to mind his forced detention. He rather appeared to treat it as a joke, for he wrote a pleasant little note to the proprietors of the fashionable hotel where he was staying, which read something like this: Dear Sir—Kindly send me my toothbrush and paste, a striped collar and shirt. My overcoat, comb, and hair brush you will kindly keep until I call for them, which will be about the 25th June, 1890." Bonny may not need the articles in 1890, as he will, as soon as his term expires, be ordered to appear before the court to show cause why he should not be longer incarcerated for attempting to shoot an officer while arresting him.

A Move in the Right Direction.

By referring to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Rand Bros. have made arrangements whereby farmers can secure either a large or small farm. The Mathers land is known to be rich and much of it is open prairie, while the remainder can be very easily cleared. Parties desiring farms cannot do better than to look into this matter, for it will undoubtedly prove to be a good investment for anybody.

Three of a Kind.

Edward E. Kidder's "Trump Card" in three acts, entitled "Three of a Kind," was presented by Salisbury's Troubadours last evening to a large audience, almost as large in fact, as that which attended "The Humming Bird" the previous evening. Nellie McHenry, of course, carried off the palm in the character of "Dolly Dashwood," and was ably assisted by John Webster as "Bob Flush," Frank Blair as "Jack Potts," and M. C. Mandeville as "Phil Straight." Thos. E. Jackson ably maintained the role of "Prescilla Prism," the ancient but gushing old maid. Miss Martinez made a charming "Dainty," while Miss Herbert fairly captivated the audience by her simple manner and well rendered songs. From beginning to end the piece is replete with funny situations, and a better one could not have been selected for a last night's performance, as the company have gone away leaving behind them many who will accord them a hearty welcome when they again visit Victoria.

Russell Station Sunday School Social.

The teachers and friends of the Russell Station Sunday School and Gospel Mission, situated on the Esquimalt road, held their first social last evening in the mission room over Mr. Gerow's blacksmith shop. The school has been established only six months and is already in a flourishing condition, the average attendance being from 16 to 18. The social last evening was well attended, the room being crowded, and the programme gave every satisfaction to all present; so much so, that another entertainment is spoken of at an early date. The programme opened with the hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and a prayer by Rev. Mr. Wadman; piano solo, by Prof. Sherpe; recitation, by Mr. Curtis, of H. M. S. Caroline; song, Miss Humber; song by a sailor of H. M. S. Caroline; instrumental duett, Frank Penwill and Miss Martin; address by Rev. Mr. Dowler, superintendent of the district; piano solo, Miss Berrige; song, Prof. Sharpe; recitation, Miss Berrige; address by Rev. Mr. Starr. A collection for the Sunday school fund was then taken up, all responding liberally. Refreshments were then dispensed, and the entertainment came to an end with the singing of "God Save the Queen," and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Dowler.

A Sad End.

A few days ago, says Monday's Columbian, a young farmer named Athenas Thompson, from Port Hammond, was brought to the city suffering from a very severe attack of typhoid fever and was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment, under Dr. Fagan, the attending physician. The fever reached its height on Saturday afternoon and two attendants remained with Thompson all night. Yesterday morning the delirium abated somewhat and the hospital steward relieved the night watcher. Shortly after the steward went on duty a patient in the next room called to him to go in and pull down the blind as it was so bright in the room that he could not sleep. Thompson was not showing any particular signs of restiveness and the steward ventured out of the room, and on returning less than a minute afterwards found the patient balancing himself on the window-sill for a leap. Rushing forward the steward grasped Thompson by the arm, but was too late as the shirt gave way and he fell to the ground, leaving a piece of the cloth in the steward's hand. In falling Thompson turned a complete summersault and alighted on his feet, but the shock threw him to the ground. He got up apparently uninjured, vaulted the fence and started in the direction of the convent, shouting and screaming. The steward soon caught up with him and took him back to the hospital. Dr. Fagan was sent for and on arriving at the hospital found Thompson much worse and bleeding from the kidneys. Everything possible was done for the sufferer, but without avail as he sank rapidly and died about 6 o'clock last evening. Dr. Fagan notified Mr. Coroner Ferris and the friends of the deceased, who considered an inquest unnecessary.

THROWN FROM A BRIDGE.

A Cowichan Indian Attempts to Murder a Flathead Klootchman by Pitching Her from the Railway Bridge Into the Harbor.

The facts in connection with the attempted murder of an Indian woman by throwing her from the approach to the railway swing bridge have just been discovered. When Sell's circus was in Victoria a couple of weeks ago a number of Indians came down from the Cowichan reservation, among them Ben, a tall, muscular fellow about forty years of age. He remained on the reservation opposite the harbor during his stay, and it is asserted that, while in a state of intoxication, he assaulted and threw Mary, into the waters of the harbor from the stationary portion of the railway bridge, the swing being open.

A BLIND INDIAN WOMAN,

The woman was seen by a reporter who got a hint of the matter, and by the aid of an interpreter, her story was related substantially as follows:

About eleven o'clock at night, thinking her mother was in another cabin, she left the one she generally slept in intending to go the other. On the way she met Ben, who endeavored to assault her, but she resisted him and started to cry out. Ben placed his hand over her mouth whenever she tried to yell, and gradually forced her away from the house and on to the approach of the bridge. He also struck her in the face several times, blackening her eye. Getting her near where the rails ended, and she again resisting, Ben suddenly pushed the blind and helpless woman over the edge and she pitched headlong into the water below, a distance of about thirty feet. When she rose to the surface she struck out, having happily sustained no serious injury. She ran against the tubular support, and succeeded in holding on to the iron work connecting the two piers.

SHE YELLED FOR HELP,

but it was a long time before it came. After nearly an hour, she thinks, had elapsed, Clakim, chief of the Beechy Bay Indians, happened along in a canoe and hearing her cries, rescued her from her perilous position, and took her to her home. Ben took the train for Cowichan next morning, and the Indians kept the matter quiet until the present, Ben being a relative of the woman he attempted to murder.

The woman is suffering from the effects of the incident, her limbs being bruised, and her head somewhat swollen. She is over forty years of age, has but one eye, and that is blind. Ben was given a bad character by the women, who state that he frequently struck them. Officer Lewis of the Indian police first became acquainted with the matter yesterday and has placed the facts before Agent Lomas, of Cowichan.

BENEATH THE WATERS.

William Furze and A. Hether Beyond a Doubt Met With A Watery Grave—The Affair Still Wrapt in Mystery—How Did the Accident Occur?

The friends of William Furze and A. Hether have now no doubt as to their fate and have given up all hope of ever seeing them again alive. The account in THE COLONIST was slightly in error regarding the time at which the boat was borrowed. Mr. Seeley said yesterday that they took the boat about two o'clock, and from another source it is learned they were seen at Esquimalt about five o'clock, where they met the proprietor of the Western Hotel. They invited him to take a seat in the boat, but he refused, preferring to come to town in the stage. After one or two drinks they started for the city, and were not seen again. We have the best authority for saying they were not intoxicated at the time they left Esquimalt, but whether they became so or not later on will always remain a mystery, as well as the cause of the accident. One theory is that the boat must have been capsized by the waves created by the large wheels of the Alaskan, but that idea is at once exploded, for the boat was picked up ten minutes before that vessel rounded the point. The sea, although not as calm as was at first represented, was not sufficiently rough to cause even a smaller boat than that occupied by the men to upset, and there was scarcely any wind. Yesterday the harbor was dragged in the vicinity where the men are supposed to have gone down, but it is not thought they will be recovered, as the current is strong and the bodies would probably have been carried out a considerable distance before the boat was discovered. Both men were Englishmen, Furze a native of Exeter, near Manchester, and Hether a native of London or vicinity. They were recent arrivals and reported as having been hard working and industrious men.

NOVEL COLONIZATION SCHEME.

The Christian Temperance Commonwealth to be Established on Malcolm Island.

Mr. Joseph Spencer, honorary secretary of the Christian Temperance Co-operative Commonwealth, who returned from the north recently, stated to a representative of THE COLONIST that the object of his visit to this province was the securing of a tract of free land from the provincial authorities for the purpose of bringing out emigrants from England on a new and excellent basis. He had selected Malcolm Island, which was situated on the line of travel to and from the north, and hoped in a few days to complete all arrangements for its transfer to the Commonwealth.

An incident in the life of a number of the crew manning the life-boats at Ramsgate had first caused a move in the direction which had resulted in the preparation of a scheme of colonization, which it is thought will benefit the province, the colonists, and eventually the promoters. The life-boat crews have to depend upon the wrecking for the wages that they secure, and in 1887 four or five of them at Ramsgate had such poor luck that they did not receive sufficient to keep body and soul together, even by the sale of some of their effects. They could not pay certain taxes and in default thereof were sent to gaol for a term. Some Christian gentlemen took the matter up and made enquiries, and after having ascertained the facts, determined to alleviate the sufferings of deserving people. After various meetings it was decided that a representative should to secure land, which would be colonized on the following plan:—Men with families, known for their respectability and thrift, would be selected, their passage paid to the colony, houses built for their reception, and the expense of every detail of life borne by the promoters, in return for eight hours work per day at agriculture, fishing, or whatever employment the directors should dictate. In brief, the man and his family would be placed in a comfortable house, and would have no care placed upon him to furnish food, clothing, education, medical attendance, etc., than that of giving eight hours per day of his work. His daily toil ended, he would be free to follow whatever pleasures he chose. The commonwealth will not be sectarian.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT

will be required to be acknowledged by the colonists chosen as the basis of their religion, and instead of a theological discourse on the sabbath the sermon on the mount will be read in the chapel or church built. Liberty in its fullest sense will be accorded all, and sectarian strife by the above method excluded. Men of science would compose part of the economy of the Commonwealth, and the study of science engaged in by all who desired. The weekday evenings passed in the discussion of scientific or other subjects.

The Commonwealth would first secure a charter from the provincial authorities, and after the inauguration of the colony, its direction would be placed in the hands of a municipal board, who would direct the work and see that no man, woman or child wanted for anything. They would bear the expense of opening up their roads, the cost of education, and in all matters would be a community within themselves for all purposes except the administration of justice. Children of colonists growing up to manhood and womanhood would be encouraged to marry early, or if they desired to take their chances in the general struggle for existence outside the care of the Commonwealth they would be dismissed with a blessing.

Mr. William King, architect and surveyor for the commonwealth, is already in the country, and so soon as he is directed, will proceed with the erection of houses. As soon as a family is selected a house will be at once erected for their reception, and after they have arrived within the care of the commonwealth, all their monetary cares cease, and they thereafter live with no thought about the bread for the morrow. The husband would be given a life interest in the house, and in the case of his death, his widow and children would be looked after.

Mr. Robert Mackworth, brother of Sir Arthur Mackworth, will direct the agricultural pursuits, and will come to this province so soon as Mr. Spencer's report is submitted and approved of.

By the above scheme, which is rather crudely outlined, it is thought that many worthy and deserving households may be sent out and

and saved from the degrading poverty which now oppresses them at home. None but good men will be chosen.

The promoters of the Commonwealth think that the labor of the colony, wisely directed, will in time furnish fair returns, and the profits over and above all charges will be devoted to similar colonies elsewhere.

Mr. Spencer will leave for England so soon as satisfactory arrangements are completed. He is delighted with the climate of the province, and in all respects is satisfied with the progress made in his work since arriving here.

COMOX NOTES.

A correspondent writing from Comox under date August 25th, says:—

The weather is very warm—splendid harvest weather. The crops are better than they have been for a number of years. Some of the farmers are cutting the second crop of hay. It is now the 25th of August and no road work in Comox. Whether the new road boss does not know where to start or how to start is the question.

The talk here is that as soon as the government will furnish money there will be another long bridge built across the bay at the mouth of the Courtenay river. There is over half a mile of bridging here hardly safe for man or beast to travel over, and still they talk of more, which is a mistake.

The government agent, Mr. Bentley, shot and killed a bull belonging to Mr. Rodello. The bull broke into Mr. Bentley's field and he shot it.

A new sawmill is in course of construction for Messrs. Dunsmuir & Sons at the Union Mines.

THE BOUNDARY LINE.

How It Is Marked Between the United States and British America.

There is little danger that any one wishing to settle in far northern Dakota will by mistake find himself in the Dominion. The boundary is marked plainly and continuously by stone cairns seven and one-half by eight feet; mounds, seven by fourteen feet; iron pillars, seven feet high, eight inches square at the bottom and four at the top, the timber posts five feet high, eight inches square. There are 385 of these marks between the Lake of the Woods and the base of the Rocky Mountains. East and west of the Red river, the boundary is marked by cast-iron pillars at mile intervals. "American" and "British" pillars alternate. On one side of each post is "Convention of London," on the other, "October 20, 1818." Where lakes are crossed, stone heaps have been built projecting several feet above water. In forests the line was first marked by felling the timber a rod wide and clearing away the underbrush; where the line has been obliterated, posts have taken its place.

For the last month or so a man wearing the garb of a Catholic priest has been infesting Toronto. He has long since been suspended from sacred functions and has been behaving himself in such an outrageous manner as to bring into disgrace the church of which he was once a servant. Time and again have Catholics picked him up when drunk on the streets and secured him a place of lodging out of respect for his former calling, but their patience has seized to be a virtue, and as a priest said the only cure for him is a lengthy imprisonment in gaol.

Chas. Doherty, of Toronto, struck a stone on the Kingston Road while on his bicycle and was thrown violently to the ground. His skull and right arm are fractured and he is not expected to live.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Mary Donald, a lunatic living a short distance from Fredericton, attacked her aunt, Matilda Grieves, with a knife, hacking her up so badly that she cannot live. The injured woman is 70 years of age. Her assailant has been demented for years, but was never considered dangerous. She was sent to an asylum.

Like Magic.

"It always acted like magic. I had scarcely ever need to give the second dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaints." Mrs. Walter Govenlock, Ethel, Ont.
